Overview 2009 Tarot Card reading:

The Tarot reveals that this year is majorly dominated by the Star, the sign of hopes, aspirations and cherishing the good in life. The year signifies a ray of hope and positivity in the lives of people. In short, 2009 will usher in more reasons to smile, for the worst has been left behind. This year is also focussing on mutual relationships. There is a high probability of groups of the same school of thought to come together for a larger cause and this is a good sign, for this is bound to yield astounding results.

Overview 2009 Runes:

The runes weave a story of compassion, love and peace as we kick-start the New Year. After all the violence and disturbance that marred 2008, there is much awaited serenity and 2009 is a year of cherished hopes for the same. A year of balance, 2009 marks the beginning of a much awaited decorum in all scheme of things. Justice will be done and peace will be established. Fewer efforts and more returns will be the order, yes inspite of those recession blues! Although in the middle half of the year, there may be a few setbacks in the form of shocks and unexpected pitfalls. Vigilance is the key in the months of June-August. There is also an element of mystery with the Blank Rune that speaks of in the major portion of the year. Most activities will be handled with an unmistakable faith, time for transformation is now, and what better a time than 2009! The age old adage of "United we Stand" will well hold true.

Overview 2009 Energy reading:

2009 marks the beginning of an Epoch. Now we are at the gates of a new paradigm, a new understanding. This is the year of simplification. This is the year when the intellect surrenders to the spirit and makes way to lay the foundation of Mass Consciousness. Each and every one of us, is now being linked to the collective that we are a part of (the human race). This is the year where Mankind transforms itself and becomes the Divinekind. The animal self is tamed and what arises is pure co-creative symphony. This year we allow the pathways to inner enlightenment and outer coherence to transpire. This is a year where we learn to allow our desires, simple tasks, ambitions to fulfill themselves, letting go of all the micro management. This

P This year San Sha (bad energy) is in the East Sector. Again this sector should not be disturbed at all especially for ground breaking or renovations which can result in negative consequences is the perfect time to start new projects, and watch how the universe is operating in pure synchronicity. Humanity has always been looking up at the skies for an answer, for contact, for God to intervene.

Overview 2009 Feng Shui:

2009 is the year of Ji Chou. Ji is heavenly stem which means Yin Earth. Chou is branch or animal which means ox. So this year is the year of Earth Ox i.e. purely Yin Earth elements. There are five elements in the study of Feng Shui and in everyone's birth chart you will find the five elements, out of which the water element is related with intelligence. If you imagine Yang Earth is rock or mountain and Yin Earth is soil then in everybody's chart there is a certain amount of water element. So this year Yin Earth will make the water muddy. That means there are possibilities of getting intelligence corrupted. This year there could be many scandals like Satyam which is coming out of muddy intelligence. In the coming year, you shouldn't allow your intelligence and thinking to be corrupted by greed. As per flying star Feng Shui the centre number is 9, West will be occupied by sickness star 2, which could be corrected by putting Wulu or Calabash (i.e. pumpkin). North direction has yearly 5 yellow, which gives you hurdles and delays in your endeavour. This could be corrected by putting metal element. Yearly 3 is in the North East sector. It is associated with quarrels so that can be corrected by putting fire element in the NE sector. South East is occupied by prosperity Star 8. One can improve luck by spending more time in the SE sector. This year is the year of the ox
